Gov. Fine Will Recommend Economies From Chesterman Committee To Legislators

Harrisburg, (AP)—A special message from Gov. John S. Fine on the Chesterman committee economy recommendations heads business before the General Assembly today.

Fine will deliver his message in person before a joint session of the House and Senate as all portions of the state government except the Legislature observe George Washington's birthday. The usual legal holiday is being celebrated today.

Only skeleton forces will man the administrative offices around the state capitol as the lawmakers congregate in the house 5:30 p. m. after a five-day recess.

On the eve of his address Fine told a newsmen he would go along with all but "a very few" of the economy study committee's recommendations.

"Most of them I can and will discuss favorably," Fine told a newsmen. "The message will cover almost everything recommended by the committee."

Fine named the committee last year to make a study and report to him in time to make recommendations to the 1953 Legislature on ways of making the state government more efficient and more economical. The group is headed by Francis J. Chesterman, Philadelphia.

The governor is expected to emphasize that the nearly 80 millions in economy savings proposed by the committee cannot be attained for at least eight years, even if all are adopted in full.

This still would leave the bulk of the money which Fine says the Commonwealth will need in new revenue to be obtained by other means. Some 157 million is needed, according to the governor's figures, to meet Pennsylvania's $1,400,000,000 budget for 1953-55.

Next thing in importance to consideration of the Chesterman reports in this week's Legislature agenda is further House consideration of an administration bill to call a convention to revise Pennsylvania's 79-year-old constitution.

Administration forces were reported glum on prospects of getting the measure through. Proposed amendments in the bill for days would knock out all appointive delegates to the 120-member constitutional convention.

The convention, if held, would meet next January under the present bill. Its recommendations for a new basic law for the Commonwealth would go on the ballot for voter approval in November, 1954.

Would Break Secret Pacts

Washington (AP)—Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Ia) yesterday proposed a congressional declaration that the U. S. does not recognize as permanently binding the secret agreements which President Eisenhower has accused Russia of violating.

Hickenlooper called for revision of an Eisenhower-sponsored resolution aimed at rejecting any interpretations of agreements which "have been perverted to bring about the subjugation of free peoples." The resolution also would proclaim hope for restoration of self-government in Soviet satellites.

The Iowa senator, a foreign relations committee member, said he thinks the resolution ought to go further and make it clear that the U. S. does not consider the agreements as anything more than temporary.

Alan Haywood Labor Leader Dies At Work

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., (AP)—Organized labor lost its third leader in three months Saturday night when Allan Haywood, executive vice president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations collapsed and died while carrying on his life's work—unionism.

Haywood, bitter foe of Communism who compared joining a union with joining a church, died of a heart attack while addressing a union meeting here. He collapsed on the speaker's platform. Firemen attempted to revive him but the labor executive—rushed to Wilkes-Barre Hospital—died without regaining consciousness.

The death of the 64-year-old Haywood, who was hailed in some labor circles as "Mr. CIO" and recognized as an achiever of unity within his own ranks, follows those of Phil Murray, former CIO president, and William Green, late president of the American Federation of Labor. Murray and Green died last November.

Haywood, who rose from a coal mining pit in England to the CIO's second ranking job, recently lost a bitter fight for the presidency of the vast union. Believed to be heir apparent to Murray's leadership, he was defeated in his bid for union control by Walter P. Reuther. Haywood was re-elected vice president.

Little Rock, (AP)—Anthony W. Smith of Washington was mentioned today as the most likely successor to Allan Haywood, CIO executive vice president, who died at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Saturday night.

Smith, executive secretary of the CIO Committee on Regional Development and Conservation, was here for a six-state union regional convention and declined to discuss the vacancy. He termed his chief's death as a "serious blow to the organization."

However, top union officials attending the conference said Smith, as Haywood's first assistant, was directly in line for the post.

Williams Is Sorry Civil Service Given

Washington (AP)—Sen. Williams (R-Del.) said yesterday he regretted he voted for the Internal Revenue Bureau reorganization approved by Congress last year to put tax collectors under Civil Service.

The senator, whose investigations helped bring about the re-amping of the agency, said he had been greatly disappointed in the way the reorganization was carried out—"so much so that if I had it to do over again, I wouldn't have voted for it."

Contrary to the intent of Congress, he said, the bureau has failed in many instances to hold competitive examinations before filling the posts of district and regional revenue collectors.

"And when they did hold them," he said, "in certain cases they completely ignored the findings of the Civil Service Commission" and selected officials who were not among the three top applicants certified as eligible by the commission.

Williams, in a recorded radio interview with the Gannett News Service, said he is checking on the manner in which all revenue collectors were selected and intends to report to the Senate in the next two or three weeks.

Charges GOP With Bad Tax Cut Package

Washington, (AP)—CIO President Walter Reuther declared yesterday that the GOP Congress is preparing a "phony tax packages" which will "place even heavier tax burdens on the millions of low and middle-income families throughout America."

Reuther accused Republicans in Congress of engaging in a "propaganda carnival" to convince the average taxpayer that tax relief "up to 11 per cent" is in the works.

"In fact," Reuther said in a statement, "there is no intention to pass it at this session of Congress." Reuther referred to a bill approved by the House Ways and Means Committee, which would reduce income taxes an average of 10 per cent starting July 1.

All but one Democrat on the committee, headed by Rep. Reed R-NY, voted with the majority in recommending the cut. Three Republicans voted against it.

Reuther said: "The Reed bill is nothing more than a smokescreen and a diversion to cloak the fact that the excess profits tax on corporations will expire in mid-year."

"The high-pressure soap-sellers hope that the American public will accept this tax relief for the big corporations in anticipation of so-called tax-relief for themselves—an estimated 54 cents a week per family—which they will not actually get."

At his news conference last week, President Eisenhower said he does not favor any tax cutting until a balanced budget is in sight.

Eddy Claims 'We Are Set' In Europe

Heidelberg, Germany (AP)—A quiet American soldier, with a battle-fied will of iron, is preparing to relinquish command of more than 250,000 American troops in Europe.

Lt. Gen. Manton S. Eddy will leave soon with the Western defense picture looking far better than it did when he arrived in August, 1950—a black month in world tension.

Then the Soviet Army in East Germany had a 3-to-1 advantage in combat strength over Allied forces in West Germany, and could have jumped off any day without reinforcement.

This situation exists no longer. The Allies have increased their combat forces several times over.

"We're all set," said Eddy, a rugged military man who rarely speaks for quotation in an interview.

"The U. S. Army in Europe today is in a high state of readiness and is doing a fine job in maintaining its combat efficiency. It is composed of soldiers who know why they are over here. They appreciate why they must be subjected to certain restrictions and a continuous tough training schedule."

"Such an army is ready for anything," Eddy will retire March 31 as commander-in-chief, U. S. Army, Europe (USAREUR), because he has been five years in the permanent grade of major general. That is the maximum allowed by a law which ignores his temporary three-star rank.

His successor will be Lt. Gen. Charles L. Bolte, another old time foot soldier, who has been commanding the U. S. Seventh Army at Stuttgart under USAREUR.

His USAREUR headquarters are a silent professional workshop, where many concrete defense achievements are still classified secret.

Foot Soldiers Will Learn About Atomic Artillery In New Nevada Nuclear Tests

Washington, (AP)—Foot soldiers may learn in the next few weeks what to expect in future battles when atomic artillery comes to their support.

The Defense Department announced last night that about 20,000 men from the armed forces, including 12,000 Army soldiers and officers, will have a hand in the 1953 series of nuclear tests in Nevada, scheduled to begin shortly.

Although both the Pentagon and the Atomic Energy Commission have maintained official silence on the subject, there is general expectation that the Army will make its first "live ammunition" tests with nuclear charged shells fired from one of its new 280 millimeter guns. The Army has made public demonstrations of the 85-ton, mobile weapons, but in all firing so far has used only standard explosive ammunition.

The Nevada Proving Grounds, about 80 miles northwest of Las Vegas, provides ample room for experiments with atomic shells. The Yucca Flats and Frenchman Flats test areas are each about 15 miles in diameter. A gun spotted in the foothills of the flanking ranges of low, desert mountains could fire the full 20 mile distance of which the gun is capable.

Presumably, in first tests the big weapon would be fired by remote control from a safe distance—to guard against a possible "short round" explosion immediately upon leaving the muzzle. For the same reasons of safety, troops scheduled to advance in a tactical exercise to seize the area blasted by the exploding atomic shell presumably would be kept away from the down-range path of the shells, at least in initial tests. In conventional artillery use, shells are fired in high trajectory over the heads of troops.

For other troop operations in conjunction with explosions of A-bombs dropped from planes and detonated in the air, the troops in this year's "Exercise Desert Rock V" probably will move in closer than ever before. Last year about 1,500 infantrymen huddled in ordinary slit trenches and foxholes at a distance of a little less than four miles from one of the atomic blasts. Except for a thick coating of desert dust whipped up by the wind from the explosion, they emerged untouched.

This year's Nevada tests will include not only lessons for troops but civilians in atomic age warfare.

Yugoslavia Hints It Is Interested In Alliance Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Monday, (AP)—Yugoslavia today warned that the United States must oppose Russian imperialism at all points of the globe or risk collapse as a world power.

The Communist regime hinted it was willing to enter into defensive alliances against such aggression.

This opinion was laid down by Vice President Edvard Kardelj, who guides this nation's foreign policies, in a speech before the fourth congress of the People's Front, warborn organization of the anti-Axis resistance movement.

His speech-key address during the three-day conference—reflected Yugoslavia's official opinions on international problems and charted a course for the nation's socialists and "working peoples" to pursue.

As prepared by Kardelj and distributed by the official information bureau, the speech bristled with denunciation of Soviet policies as "extremely aggressive," intimidating, extorting and the greatest menace to world peace.

At the same time he expressed belief that chances of preserving peace are better today than they were two or three years ago.

The slight former slovene schoolmaster called Russia's Prime Minister Stalin a dictator promoting his policies as a method to corrupt, intimidate and subordinate the people under his control.

While referring repeatedly to his government's concern over "western imperialism" Kardelj cautiously expressed Yugoslavia's willingness against Russian aggression.

Kardelj contended that the East-West cold war has sharpened during the past four years, but asserted that after reviving conditions he felt "the chances of preserving world peace are better today than they were two or three years ago."

As a result, Roger had to be rushed to All Souls Hospital in Morrisstown where doctors stitched up his scalp. His condition was described as good.

Compromise Wage-Price War Freeze

Washington, (AP)—A compromise on economic controls providing for a 90-day freeze on prices and wages in the event of a hot war was reported under consideration by the Eisenhower administration yesterday.

One influential Republican senator, who didn't want to be quoted by name, said he has been informed such a measure would be acceptable to the President.

However, Sen. Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, said in another interview he is opposed to any standby controls, including the freeze proposal.

Senate Banking Committee members are known to be drafting a proposed bill under which the President could exercise the freeze powers in the event of an emergency.

The administration wants to keep some materials and allocation controls in operation but President Eisenhower told his news conference last week that he will not request even standby powers.

Eisenhower said he will consider any bill Congress passes, but remarked that any legislation must be in broad general terms.

The Senate Banking Committee will go into the controls question next Tuesday and Wednesday, when it has summoned Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary of Defense Wilson, among others, for testimony.

Chairman Capehart (R-Ind), an advocate of standby controls, said the committee wants to get from Dulles not only an estimate of the present cold war situation but a forecast of what may be expected in the next six months.

The Indiana senator added he expects Dulles to tell the group what the chances are of avoiding World War Three.

Although Capehart said he is satisfied that about three-fourths of the members of his committee favor standby controls in some form, he obviously was doubtful that the Senate would approve a bill in the face of administration opposition.

The eight-hour ground action northeast of the truce conference site at Panmunjom, was one of two bitter clashes on the Western Front early Sunday. A smashing hit-and-run attack by an Allied patrol west of Korangpo killed 18 Chinese defenders, the Eighth Army reported.

At the same time, an Allied patrol brushed with Reds in the Panmunjom sector and killed three. Almost immediately the patrol was hit by an undetermined number of Communist troops.

The Reds poured heavy mortar fire on the beleaguered patrol. It called for reinforcements and two groups were sent to help support the original force.

Operation Economy Is Started

Washington (AP)—Chairman Appropriations Committee yesterday proclaimed the start of an intensive budget-trimming study by picked business and management experts.

Bearing the tactical label of "Operation Economy," the Taber drive has the announced purpose of squeezing "every drop of water" from the $78,600,000,000 budget sent to Congress as the last major act of the Truman administration.

The aim is to cut as deeply as possible into an estimated 10 billion dollar deficit for the year starting July 1.

Taber said his budget-squeezing investigation had the "full approval" of President Eisenhower and the co-operation of Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge.

In a statement in which he unveiled "Operation Economy," the New York said 75 fiscal experts already are at work scrutinizing the spending estimates of government agencies as "the ground-work" for a balanced budget next year.

"Our aim is to eliminate the padding and squandering and give the American people a rock-bottom budget," Taber said.

Taber, chief spokesman for House foes of large-scale government spending, said a dozen task forces will study the requests of all federal agencies.

The use of outside experts on budget studies was first tried by the committee during the Republican 80th Congress, when 30 investigators were put to work analyzing spending requests.

Taber said the "results spoke for themselves. The budget was balanced for the first time since 1930." Since 1949, he added, Democrats have not availed themselves of this technique.

"Operation Economy" comes squarely in the middle of the "which comes first" controversy now straining congressional relations with the Eisenhower administration.

The President has declared for a balanced budget as a preliminary to any reduction in taxes. On Capitol Hill, tax law writers led by Rep. Reed R-NY are standing fast for a 10 per cent cut in personal income taxes by June 30, whether the budget is balanced or not.

State Department Picked For Expansion Program By Chesterman Committee

Harrisburg, Pa. (AP)—The Chesterman committee yesterday concluded its series of 25 economy in government reports with a suggested plan for expanding the department of state.

The final report came on the eve of Gov. John S. Fine's report to the general assembly on the overall recommendations of the group he appointed to study efficiency and economy in the government.

The committee said the State Department changes would result in a savings of only $15,500 a biennium—one of the smallest of all the reports.

The State Department report followed a survey of the state labor and industry department in which the committee said it found ways of saving approximately $500,000 every two years.

Nearly 80 million dollars a biennium is the total possible savings pointed out in its series of surveys.

However, most of them are on a long-range basis. Fine estimated that only about eight million dollars could be saved during the next two years.

The state Justice Department is still studying the reports to determine which would require constitutional amendments and which could be changed by new laws.

Chairman Francis J. Chesterman, Philadelphia, said the objective of the recommended State Department reorganization "is to capitalize upon the department's traditional role and to provide it with staff competence to perform the variety of functions that are common to but not an integral part of the specialized duties of other departments."

Pennsylvania's Constitution Out Of Date Research By State's Jurists Discloses

By Pete Olywyer
Pennsylvania's Constitution is out of date.
It's loaded with dead wood.
Many provisions no longer make sense. There are too many words—three times as many as in the U. S. Constitution.

It doesn't stick strictly to constitutional business instead it slips over into the legislative field. (A good constitution wouldn't be caught dead legislating.)

In some respects it hampers the legislature. In others it forbids efficiency.

It puts certain appointive powers out in left field when they should be at home base. It provides no way to get rid of some officials when they're not doing their duty.

At least these are the opinions of many Pennsylvania jurists. Men learned in law and history Constitution for more than 30 years.

They have held conferences and meetings. Volumes have been published on the hearings of special commissions.

In the last five years the main objections and suggestions have been more or less jelled. A large number of experts agree on many of them.

These experts are from both political parties. One, for example, is William A. Schnader, former State attorney-general. Another is Superior Court Judge Chester H. Rhodes of Stroudsburg. Schnader is a Republican, Rhodes a Democrat—but they agree the Constitution needs many changes.

The Daily Record has studied have talked of revising the State the opinions of the acknowledged experts. In stories following, it will summarize these opinions roughly and in non-legal form.

These capsule-size stories are aimed at explaining the hullabaloo over revising the Constitution. Any change—whether for better or worse—will affect all the residents of Pennsylvania.

Gov. John S. Fine recently called for revision. Many jurists echoed his plea. The legislature has the problem in its lap at the present session.

Whether or not it does anything to correct present Constitutional faults may depend in part on what residents of Monroe and other counties think and say about the question.

Tito Charges That Reds, Vatican Seek World Split

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, (AP)—President Tito accused both Soviet Russia and the Vatican yesterday of attempting to divide the world into two "hostile camps."

He called action of Pope Pius XII "dangerous for the peace and freedom of the world."

His assertion came at the opening of the fourth congress of Yugoslavia's People's Front—a war-born organization created for the purpose of uniting this country against the Axis invaders.

In his new role as president of the Yugoslav republic, Tito spoke only briefly in welcoming 2,200 delegates and observers from five foreign countries. He pledged the nation's determination to fight for world peace.

Bluntly he asserted that the present policies of the Kremlin have nothing to do with Communism as prescribed by its founders but rather were applied in pursuit of Russia's imperialism and expansionism.

At the same time, he said, the Vatican has been attempting to divide the world into two ideological camps with the same purpose as that of Russia for splitting the world.

Among the recommendations which will come before the delegates is one calling for a change of the organization's name from the People's Front to the "Socialist Union of Working Peoples of Yugoslavia."

This move, certain to be adopted, apparently has been designed mainly as a bid for closer association between the organization, dominated by the Communist party here, and the left-wing groups of the rest of the world.

Police Halt Youth Search

Johnstown, Pa. (AP)—State and county police gave up a concentrated search yesterday for a 24-year-old youth wanted for questioning in the strangulation death of his sister.

The youth, Jean Christoff, 24, disappeared Tuesday, the day his sister's body was found in their isolated home near Frugality.

Paul Christoff, the father, feels his attractive 21-year-old daughter, June, committed suicide. He said she returned home from Penn State College last month in a highly nervous condition.

The elder Christoff figures his son left home on a hunting and trapping trip into the heavily-wooded and mountainous section of

When Princess Pat had pups

When Princess Pat, their handsome Irish setter, had pups, the Thompsons telephoned all their friends around the neighborhood and suggested they come over to see the playful little rascals.

And that's the way we at the telephone company like it to be. We want telephone service to be so easy to use, so convenient, that you never have to give it a second thought. All of us work hard to make it that way.

Monroe Residents Contribute Record-Breaking Polio Total

$13,000 Is Given During Month's Effort

Monroe residents contributed a record-smashing total of almost $13,000 in last month's polio campaign.

That was the figure revealed last night after chapter president Helen Kulp and campaign chairman Joseph H. Small counted up the total to date.

The figures still are incomplete, Miss Kulp explained. Coin boxes have not been collected from all places in the county. Latecomers are still mailing in some polio coin cards. There are about $200 still to be returned from Barrett Township for coin boxes and special events.

The total last night was $12,713.50, said Miss Kulp.

This was $1,329.52 more than was collected in the record 1952 campaign.

This year's campaign was lived-up to by the use of the "Traveling Crutch" and by the miniature iron lung and scales device used on Main St., Stroudsburg.

Major items were the coin cards and the Mothers' March.

In both divisions the county hung up new records.

Mothers March workers turned in a total $5,375.26. This was exactly $220 more than in 1952.

The sum gained through the March was the biggest lump sum of the campaign.

Next in line was the return from coin cards. Here Monroe residents beat the previous year by $1,363.09 to turn in a total of $4,426.06.

The startling return on coin cards was higher than 1952 in dollars and numbers.

Last year 1,279 residents returned the cards with a contribution.

This year 2,600 mailed the card back—an increase of more than 1,300.

Theater-goers gave more: $227.87 last month, compared with $195.99 in 1952.

Contributions from some of the county's school children rose from $100 in 1952 to $110.43 last month. Special gifts and business contributions rose $104.60 over 1952, to give a total $1,252.60.

So far only two divisions show lower figures than in the 1952 campaign, and in both these divisions returns still are incomplete.

Coin box collections as of last night were $850.90, or $298.52 lower than last year; and special events showed returns of $470.38, compared with $545.57 in 1952.

Miss Kulp was a little subdued about it all.

When the return of coin cards had been disappointingly slow at start of the campaign she had said starchy, "Just wait! They'll come in. I know these people."

The returns proved her correct.

The night of the Mothers' March she had insisted right along with Chairman Marie Brown, "We'll go over the top. You'll see!"

Last night she said:

"I just don't know what to say. . . I'm really overwhelmed. All I want them (the people) to know is that we're going to make this chapter just as efficient as we possibly can. It makes you feel wonderful to see that kind of support and to know that those are the kind of people you're living with."

State Sportsmen Think N. Y. Should Use Hudson

New York City should not dip into the Delaware River for water, Pennsylvania sportsmen-conservationists decided Saturday.

Instead, the world's biggest city should seek a supply of water from its own Hudson River.

That was one of the conclusions on INCODEL by the group of men in session at New York City's gloomy and ornate Republican Club.

Willis Goddard of Scott St., Stroudsburg, was one of the seven county representatives at the meeting of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs.

Queried Grover Ladner, Schuylkill conservationist, "Why doesn't New York City use the Hudson?" Probably because the Hudson is badly polluted, Ladner added. He held it should be cleaned up by New York City.

"People in the watershed should have the use of the water," Ladner thought. "It should not be diverted—as from the Delaware to the Hudson valleys."

He said that if water was taken out of the Delaware by New York City it would never be returned to the Delaware watershed. It would simply swell the water table of the Hudson River valley.

Another element touched on by sportsmen was the fear that "power interests" in New York are backing the INCODEL plan for tapping the Delaware's waters. The "power interests," some sportsmen held, expected to use the water to generate hydroelectric power.

A drawback, in the opinion of sportsmen, was that the INCODEL plan for erecting impounding dams on streams in the Poconos might inundate "very valuable land."

Other conclusions reached by the group:

One—Oppose any move to permanently divert water from its own watershed to another (as from the Delaware to Hudson watersheds).

Two—Water tables must be maintained at normal levels for the entire lengths of river valleys.

Three—Recreation must be made a part of the basic planning of any plan adopted by any of three states and written into the laws creating any authority.

Four—All such impounded waters except final treatment plants should be "forever open to public fishing and subject to fisheries management by the State Conservation Agencies involved, and this to be written into the law permitting the impounding."

Five—When land is acquired and high water marks established, extra land should be purchased to provide public ingress and egress to all and any parts of dams or lakes.

State-Wide Air Alert Scheduled

The second State-wide air raid test will be staged in April.

The scheduled alert was revealed in a Civil Defense release dealing with CD instruction cards now being mailed to motorists along with their 1953 license plates.

The cards will give these rules to motorists caught in an alert:

Pull to the side of the road and stop; leave lanes open for emergency vehicles and keep all intersections clear; shut off motor and lights; get out and take cover, if handy—otherwise crouch or lie down in vehicle; resume travel on "All Clear" unless otherwise directed.

Distribution of the motorists' instructions will be completed by March 31. "All Pennsylvania motorists will be required to put them in actual use in a state-wide air raid precautions test to be held during the month of April," the release says.

McCarthy Is Accused

Washington (AP)—The Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre Jr., dean of the Washington Episcopal Cathedral said yesterday Sen. McCarthy, Congressman Velde and a great many others "are demonstrating that they believe God and the nation are best served by the frightened and credulous collaborators of a servile brand of patriotism."

Dean Sayre made this comment during the course of his morning sermon. The reference was to Sen. McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, who is chairman of the Senate Investigating Committee and Rep. Velde (R-III), who heads the House Un-American Activities Committee.

"It comes mighty close to 'tempting God,'" Dean Sayre declared, "when anyone operates on the assumption that they are the divinely constituted guardians of other men's consciences, other men's patriotism or thoughts. Once the church occupied this role—but when it abused the power, as it sometimes did, the modern world would trust it no longer. Yet today this power is in the hands of men far less responsible."

Dean Sayre also blasted the American Legion for its action in picketing local movie houses which are showing Charlie Chaplin's movie "Limelight."

Dr. Francis J. Trembley, head of Lehigh University's biology department and biological adviser to INCODEL described his survey of the Delaware last Summer for recreational possibilities.

He warned that lowering of the Delaware's water level must be guarded against.

Water entering the river from the Poconos' streams is dark swamp water which is "much more costly and difficult to treat."

Dr. Trembley said there must be water for industrial expansion along the lower Delaware and to serve the increased population in that area and in northern New Jersey.

The proposed INCODEL dams would not control floods, he said, but would serve chiefly as water reservoirs.

Famous Woman Photographer Will Appear Before Dutch Treat Club Members Today

People are always saying—"It's a small world."

Margaret Bourke-White, guest speaker at tonight's meeting of the Stroudsburg Dutch Treat Club, is probably one of the few persons outside of pilots who is qualified to make the statement.

On two separate occasions, Miss Bourke-White has done assignments for Life magazine which required aerial photography.

One of these assignments—covering the activities of the Strategic Air Command—took the lady photographer eight miles into the air. At that height, traveling at near-supersonic speeds, she photographed SAC's fabulous aircraft, its tactics and the men who execute its plans.

As the first woman ever to fly in a jet-powered B-47, Miss Bourke-White flew 15,000 miles on her assignment; turned in one of Life's most popular "features" on the Command. Aerial photography played an important part last year in her unusual pictorial feature on American landmarks, also done as a Life assignment.

Miss Bourke-White traveled in a helicopter for that one.

An assignment which required several months for completion, the "helicopter-eye view" of the nation took her on rides with crop-dusters, traffic patrols and pipeline inspectors.

Once, flying over Chesapeake Bay, Miss Bourke-White was photographing a "simulated" rescue by helicopter when the machine in which she was riding crashed, dumping her into the sea.

The "imitation" rescue became a real one. A harness was lowered from another Navy "whirlbird" and Miss Bourke-White was hauled up "like a sack of wheat" from the water.

Only casualties on the mission: All of the photographer's cameras; at the bottom of the bay.

When she addresses Dutch Treat

Margaret Bourke-White

members tonight at 6:30 p. m. in the Penn-Stroud, Miss Bourke-White is expected to draw upon her knowledge of national and world affairs.

During the past two years she has visited nearly every country in the world on assignment for Life. Her photographic coverage of the "stalled" Korean war and Japanese occupation have given her a broad background in foreign affairs.

Car Upsets, Woman Hurt

Martha J. Rude was in for a shock yesterday afternoon when her car struck a bank on the south side of Foxtown Hill and overturned.

The 42-year-old East Orange woman had pulled out of the traffic line to pass several cars, according to Pfc. Ed Beneski and Pfc. Emil Weber of Stroudsburg.

As she overtook one of these vehicles, it pulled out too. The move forced the Rude vehicle to swerve toward the left side of the highway. It rolled part way up the bank and overturned onto its right side.

Damages were estimated as $150. The driver suffered a minor knee cut.

Just One Month More

A quick glance at the calendar assures us that in just short of another month Spring, beautiful Spring, will arrive and behind that wonderful day will come the bursting buds, the ever-increasing return of more and more birds, and the urge to unlimber the fishing equipment as the trout season nears.

Such mild days as the ones we enjoyed in the Poconos Saturday and Sunday make us even more sensitive to the return of the wonderful days that follow Winter, but we must issue a stern warning that the danger is not past when heavy snows and freezing temperatures will continue to plague the uneasy householder.

Even today, of course, we have continuing reports of the early appearance of the dramatically brilliant forsythia whose annual contribution to the bright colors of the year is so welcome, and those who are given to bird watching tell us of the earlier-than-usual arrival of many wings from the south.

We cannot afford to be smug, however. In our summaries from the Weather Bureau we are told of blizzards burying the western states in heavy blankets of snow, and of the mercury disappearing in the thermometer as the below-zero marks are recorded.

Surely, Spring is not far away but between its arrival and the intervening weeks we can be plagued with some mighty unpleasant times. Maybe even as you read this the darkening clouds in the west will herald the approach of more snow. But be of good cheer; the sun, riding higher each day in the heavens, will make short work of such nuisances... we hope!

The GAR Passes

Last week saw the formal end of the GAR, that proud and historical organization founded by the members of the Union Army following the Civil War. The last post of the GAR was Stanton Post 55 of Los Angeles, formed in 1883. With the death of its last member in January, the post ceased to exist, and after a quiet ceremony its Bible, used since the post's founding, and the flag were earmarked for shipment to the archives in Washington.

Personal links are slowly disappearing with the once vaunted Union Army. Today there are but two living of those who played so marvelous a part in our relatively short history. One of these veterans is 106 years young, the other 111.

The few remaining survivors of the boys in Blue and Gray should serve to remind all of us how serious were our problems in the days of '61-'64, and the price they paid in that epic struggle which found brother against brother in the field.

As of today, our problems are as serious as they were in 1861, but if we think for a moment of the unified nation wrought by that war we shall find renewed strength for the future.

The Civil War revitalized this nation of ours, and our duty is to keep it the unified, strong, single power these men fought and died for so long ago.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

Indiana Homecoming

(Steve Hannagan, famous publicity man, was buried yesterday in St. Mary's Cemetery in the town of Lafayette, Indiana, where he was raised. — News item.)

This is St. Mary's, the hometown cemetery... There are no tall buildings, no light-glazed skyscrapers, no glamorization of place, person or product... Only the music of wind through the grasses.

There are old trees, making their own glories... Rolling hills needing no turgid balldoo... Sunsets with a beauty beyond skyscrapers.

Unmatched by the charm of fabulous places... There are home folks, simple and untrained... Yet giants in a quality all their own.

The quality of little people in little places... These are kin, neighbors and unwavering friends... They lacked the flame, the irrepressible fire... The gusto and zeal to build Baghdad.

But out of this Indiana countryside came the "big time" dream and the fulfillment... Here are the old days again, Steve... Days of barefoot journeys... of swimmin' holes... The fishin' pole and shaded river.

The sandlot and shattered window... Mom as she looked in earliest memory... The old man when his step was lively... The home and the sunflowered yard... The schoolgirl sweetheart... Sunbonnet Sue... The spring May party not far from St. Mary's... The strawlike... the paper route... The romp in the fields with the houn' dawg... The first dreams... the early touch of ambition... The quiet and peace were long gone, Steve... Acclaim, fame, success had effaced them... effaced them... But you were at heart always a boy... And you sleep as a boy sleeps now... Rest happily!... The towers, the lights, the "big time"...

They don't amount to much, they don't amount to much!

This week was in some ways extra wonderful and had a glow to it, with Brotherhood Week and a World Prayer Day celebrated by millions. Things like the Jelke trial, the waterfront scandals, etc., seemed dismal pagan stuff. There was a certain "lift" in the air of America. With President Eisenhower putting prayer high on the list of what America needs most, with this week seeing a world prayer meeting begun at dawn in the Fiji Islands and ending at dusk in Alaska and with churches of every faith joining hands in a fight against corruption and crime, February is proving itself quite a month. Any month that gave the world George Washington and Abe Lincoln has a perfect background for this big-time job in spiritual uplift. Nearly a half hundred nations observed the World Day of Prayer. The hunch that the atomic bomb will meet its master only in an atomic faith is spreading.

In America the figures of Washington, Lincoln, the colonists on their knees in the Massachusetts snows, and the wives and mothers putting prayer ahead of rifles in the covered wagons stand in the shadows smiling on any drive for a return to spiritual values.

"Every free government in history has been soundly imbued in a deeply religious faith," said President Eisenhower the other day. "We all pray imperfectly, but we must keep praying as best we can. We never needed prayer more." I've won fame for a channel crossing with gun and tank, but he is a good man along the Jordan with a Bible and a mood of supplication.

Skyarks eat about six pounds of food a year.

Sir Humphrey Davy, an English chemist, invented the safety lamp used by miners. He invented the lamp in 1815.

Just when we're losing faith in humanity along comes that splendid annual gesture — National Brotherhood Week.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Standby Tax Reduction Plan Is Taft's Latest Proposal

Washington — Senator Robert Taft has an ingenious compromise to settle the explosive dispute over cutting income taxes this year.

His novel plan is what he calls "standby tax reduction."

Under Taft's proposal, a tax cut would be conditioned on whether the budget is balanced — as vigorously demanded by President Eisenhower.

If the budget is balanced, then the "standby" law would go into effect; otherwise, there would be no tax relief. It would all depend on what Congress does in slashing government spending.

Taft believes his compromise would serve a twofold purpose: Act as a strong inducement on Congress to balance the budget.

Advert an angry row and likely rebuff for the President on the dynamite-loaded tax issue.

The powerful Senate Republican Floor Leader has not worked out the details of his idea. Admittedly they present a number of administrative difficulties. But while the problem isn't easy, Taft believes it can be dealt with satisfactorily.

He has discussed the matter with other GOP leaders in the Senate and House; among them Representative Daniel Reed, N. Y., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee who is spearheading the militant drive to force through a tax cut this year, over White House opposition if necessary.

Reed evinced interest in Taft's proposal, but expressed doubt it would get anywhere in the House.

Taft did not dispute that. He is fully aware the Administration has little chance of stopping Reed's bill in the House. The best Republican leaders can hope for there is to stall action until near the end of the session. But even that it doubtful. Sentiment is overwhelming in the chamber for this measure.

Reed isn't the only GOP leader who is for it. Some who are publicly talking restraint, are privately backing the upstate New Yorker's insurgency.

But the situation is quite different in the Senate. There, not only is Taft Floor Leader but he also has complete control of the Finance Committee through his close friend, Senator Eugene Milliken (R., Colo.), chairman. This committee will handle the tax bill and will take its cues from Taft.

"That's why the Ohioan is racking his brain trying to figure a way out of the snarl."

OVERDUE HOUSECLEANING

The State Department is sharpening a new head-lopping ax. It's aimed at incompetent officials, who can't be gotten rid of under existing law. If they are not disloyal, they can hold on to their jobs regardless of how much of a headache they may be.

Inside word on the new housecleaning plan came from Undersecretary W. Bedell Smith.

The former head of the Central Intelligence Agency disclosed it during a talk with members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. They were surprised when he told them the State Department can't retire permanent officials "who have outlived their usefulness."

"We will soon have to ask you for legislation to enable us to cope with this problem," said Smith. "Military authorities have disciplinary power and can take action when that is required. But the heads of executive departments don't have it."

"You mean you can't fire anybody if the facts warrant," asked Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.).

"It is possible to fire a man under certain conditions," explained Smith, "but there are many borderline cases that can't be disposed of readily under the existing system. Take the case of a foreign service official who has served satisfactorily for 20 years. Let's assume he is in no way disloyal, but at the same time for reasons congenial to the State Department, he has ceased to be of value to the country."

"What are you going to do with an official like him? Under the existing law we can't do anything. We have a number of cases like that. They should be eliminated from the Department; at the same time, they are entitled to get the benefit of their 20 years of service, even though they may have demonstrated bad judgment at times."

"In other words," said Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (R., Ia.), "you think stupidity can be just as dangerous as deliberate disloyalty."

"It might be more dangerous," declared Smith. "This is a curious problem in the State Department. There are a number of cases of officials who, I'm sure, have never been disloyal but who, for various reasons, have outlived their usefulness to the government. We intend to come to you later to ask for authority to retire such officials. They have become a liability and the thing to do is to get rid of them, but to treat them fairly in doing that."

George Sokolsky Says...

Excessive Federal Employment Calls For Action By Taxpaying Citizens

Government Employment

In September 1932, the Government of the United States employed 2,387,948 persons, of whom 2,217,566 were under civil service. This huge employment not only places a burden upon the taxpayer, but according to the report of the original Hoover Commission, it was unnecessary.

(I use the term, "original Hoover Commission," because a successor group is now functioning with which Herbert Hoover has no connection. While this is no criticism of the new group, it is stated as a matter of fact.)

The largest governmental employer of civilian labor is the Department of Defense, whose payroll on the date mentioned represented 1,205,496 civilians, or more than 50 percent of the total. The question arises whether the greatest efficiency is being obtained and whether the United States is getting a dollar of service for a dollar paid. The Sarnoff Committee makes a similar criticism of excessive manpower. Furthermore, cannot some of this work be done by persons in uniform who are being paid anyhow?

The Department of Agriculture employed on that date 70,500 persons, of whom 50,577 were on civil service. This employment is obviously excessive, but the difficulty for reorganization lies in the fact that the AAA, which was killed by the courts, continued in a new form under a new name, the Production and Marketing Administration—PMA—which consumes much of the manpower and the budget of the department.

A study is undoubtedly being made of the usefulness of this agency with a view toward making the entire department more efficient and saving the taxpayer's money. The trouble here is that members of Congress fear to interfere with the political power that has been built up over the years by PMA. The Department of Agriculture can never be efficiently managed unless it is possible to reorganize altogether. It is now a political powerhouse for subordinate officials.

The Veterans Administration showed 177,327 employees, of whom 141,108 were on civil service. It would seem that this is an enormous payroll for this purpose, altogether out of proportion with the 51,045 of the Department of Interior.

It is often argued that little can be done to get rid of this excessive payroll because so large a part of it is under civil service. For instance, almost 100 percent of the post office and 97.3 percent of the Department of Defense are under civil service.

That in no manner need hamper President Eisenhower in reorganizing the administration of government along lines of modernization and efficiency, or in reducing payroll. He possesses the power to accomplish this task, with the approval of Congress. Payrolls can be reduced by Congress by the simple device of cutting appropriations.

However, there are many political reasons for not doing it effectively or not doing it at all. The first reason is that while the Republicans would like all the Democrats fired, they would prefer Republicans put in their places. This would be particu-

General Washington

Patriotism springs traditionally from devotion to national ideals. These concepts inevitably reflect the accomplishments of national leaders. The words and of the greatest Americans have become hallowed by time. In the deepest sense, these men are national emblems. Their wisdom and courage serve as a guide and inspiration. Their spirits nourish the life of a nation. It represents the course of their immortality... George Washington is the most glorious symbol of our national aspirations. And no man did more to fulfill them. His purity of patriotism was exceeded only by his passion for freedom. Wherever the light of liberty glows—the name of George Washington is written in fiery letters.

It has been said that greatness is partly in the man and partly in the times. Washington was a remarkable fusion of both. His character was ideally suited to meet the exigencies of history. He was blessed with a genius for leadership and was perfectly attuned to the cries of liberty... Washington was a wealthy man who could have lived in comfortable serenity. Nevertheless, he chose to trudge the rugged martyr's path where agony was his constant companion. He surrendered material abundance to accept the burdens of somber responsibilities. Washington sacrificed almost everything—for a hope.

Ironically, Washington's appointment to command the Yankee Doodle forces was dictated more by geography than military acumen. The choice was chiefly the result of political expediency. The South was generally reluctant to support the Revolution. Hence, an influential Dixie citizen was chosen for the high position in an effort to unify the colonies. Such are the vagaries of history... Washington's acceptance speech was notable for its simplicity and humility. He declared that he was not equal to the demands of the faith placed in him and feared "my flesh might fail under some unlucky event."

The shaping of farmer-patriots in the form of an army was Washington's most formidable task. He was appalled by the lack of essential discipline. His eventual success was the result of determination cushioned with high sense of justice. Washington was a stern leader who punished military offenses severely. But his fixity of purpose, personal dignity and profound faith in the nation's objectives won the loyalty of his soldiers. And his willingness to share their wartime rigors—almost to the point of insensibility—gained their deep affection.

He once began an address to his unpaid and discontented troops with the words: "Gentlemen, you will have to permit me to put on my spectacles, for I have not only grown gray, but almost blind in the service of my country."

His glacial exterior created the impression that he was beyond human frailties. A reading of his private correspondence indicates that the adversities of war frequently tested his indomitable will. He was no stranger to heartbreak. When victory seemed unattainable, he wrote: "The reflection upon my situation, and that of this army, produces many an uneasy hour. Few people know the predicament we are in, on a thousand accounts — few still will believe, if any disaster happens to these lines, from what cause it flows."

The internal obstacles he endured and eventually surmounted offered a finer tribute to his generalship than his final success on the battlefield... The Continental Congress was plagued by corruption. The nation's credit almost crumbled. There were times when Washington could not send ordinary military dispatches because he was unable to pay the riders. During the second Winter at Morristown, the nation was almost numbed by despair. The few wild demands for Washington's dismissal.

James Marshall, longtime leader in educational affairs in New York City, offers this recipe for a teacher:

Select a young and pleasing personality, trim off all mannerisms of voice, dress, or deportment. Pour over it a mixture of equal parts of the wisdom of Solomon, the courage of Daniel, the strength of Samson, and the patience of Job.

Season with the salt of experience, the pepper of animation, the oil of sympathy, and a dash of humor.

Stew for about four years in a stuffy classroom, testing occasionally with the fork of criticism thrust in by a principal or superintendent.

When done to turn, garnish with an inadequate salary and serve hot to an unappreciative community.

Jean Stout Is Midwinter Bride Of Martin Motts

Miss Jean Stout, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Stout, of Stroudsburg RD 2, and Martin Motts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Motts, of Brodheadsville, were wedded at Christ Lutheran and Reformed Church, Hamilton Square, Saturday at 3 p. m.

The impressive double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Adan A. Bohner, pastor of the Reformed church, in the presence of many relatives and friends. The church was decorated with pink and white gladioli. White bows were placed at the ends of the pews.

Suitable nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. Jacob Hartman, church organist, previous to the ceremony. William Lotz, of Hamilton Square, soloist, sang "Because," "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white chantilly lace over white satin with long neckline and long sleeves ending in points at the wrist, full length skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion net on a wide band of lace and fell from a crown of seed pearls. She carried an orchid resting on a prayer book with streamers of sweet peas tied on white satin ribbon.

The mother of the bride was attired in a navy crepe dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Following the ceremony a reception for 150 guests was held at the Chestnut Hill Inn. The dining room was decorated in colors matching the gowns of the wedding party. The bride's table was centered with a large four-tiered wedding cake surmounted with a miniature bride and bridegroom and decorated in white and silver. Candles were placed at each end of the table. David Stout's orchestra, of Mount Pocono, furnished the music for the dancing which followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Motts left later on a wedding trip of undisclosed destination. The bride chose for traveling a two-piece dress of forest green woolen jersey with black accessories. On their return, they will be at home to their friends at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride attended Stroudsburg High School and was formerly employed at Wyckoff's Dept. store. The bridegroom was graduated from Stroudsburg High School and served in the armed forces, having been recently discharged. Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

If everybody isn't sneezing their heads off this morning, it's not the fault of the weather which baked us till we dried off, sent us to bed with only one blanket over us, and woke us in the night shivering and shaking.

Forecast of February, March and April, all rolled into one. Such a telescoping of the seasons is a little easier on the women than the men.

Women are used to buying straw hats in January and fur coats in August, but men, poor souls, are apt to stick by the calendar to discard their felt hats—and winter underwear.

However, in season and out of season, the social calendar seems to keep jogging along pretty well. The fourth week, as a rule, is rather lighter than the other three weeks. In theory, that is.

Actually, so many organizations seize on the fourth week to hold their special events that it gets pretty hectic, just the same. This week includes the Dutch Treat Club and the Exchange Club amateur night, and the last roundup of captains and workers for the Red Cross drive.

So you might as well line up your umbrella, your golashes, your new spring bonnet and we'll be prepared for any weather, for life goes on whether or no.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress with black accessories, while the mother of the bridegroom chose a green satin dress, also with black accessories. They both wore corsages of red roses. Following the wedding a reception for 100 guests was held at the church hall which was decorated with wedding bells and white and pink streamers.

The bride was graduated from the East Stroudsburg Senior High School and is employed in the office of the Hughes Press. The bridegroom, graduate of Paradise schools, is employed by the Perfect Printing Co., Paterson, N. J.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Ever since struggling with formulas in the high school chemistry lab, I've had precious little to do with test tubes. But the orchid jersey dress that I'm wearing right this minute was actually a "test tube" tried on for size this past Saturday, and I love it. What's more, I've been looking over the other colors now available in our domestic department, and I'm not at all sure I wouldn't like to perform similar experiments with the medium blue, charcoal, grey and Scotch pink.

Maybe you read the ad in Saturday's newspaper about the Barbet Nevasag tubular cotton jersey in six delectable colors which we sell at Wyckoff's for $1.98 a yard. Or maybe you heard me tell over the radio that Viola Feltham, our store Neechi demonstrator, would be making a number on Saturday, and the public was invited to watch. If so, it's possible that you sighed and said, "Yes, it's wonderful to get an entire new dress for $2.73 in less than an hour, but with a shape like mine it would be a waste of time and money."

THAT'S what I thought at first. Then an invitation went out from the store to its employees. The who would model dresses on Saturday after Viola had made them, could have them at a ridiculously low figure . . . and it seemed like a good chance to find out for myself whether or not any one, size 18, would look well swathed in a tube of 52 inch wide jersey with a cinch belt at the waist.

I was frankly dubious about it . . . but I needn't have been. After cutting a nine inch slash on either side for the armholes; folding it under neatly, and stitching the shoulders, neckline and hem, Viola pulled it over my head, fastened a purple cinch belt around my waist, and there I was. All I needed was shoulder pads and a purple flower on the shoulder. One glance in the mirror told me I had a bargain. Only one worry persisted. After sitting a while, would the jersey cling to my nylon undershirt? In the privacy of my office, I sat . . . and it didn't—probably because Barbet Nevasag is a nylonized, full combed cotton and acetate fabric. Reassured, I ventured out on the floor to keep my part of the bargain.

Behind the jewelry counter, I saw Edna Harmon in a natural color dress with red belt and flower. In lingerie, tall, slender Souville Bowman wore orchid too, with a dark belt and yellow and purple daisies. Ruth Widmer of luggage wore a dark blue, figured neckerchief, fastened with yellow roses, on her medium blue. Dolly Erdman was in lighter blue with a necklace as her decoration, and Sylvia Strunk, the tiniest of us all, was in charcoal, with a touch of bright color. And upstairs in domestics Hattie Walters and Jane Bush also joined the act, with colors particularly suited to them.

I mention all of these names, because you who know Wyckoff's will realize what a variety of sizes and shapes we represented—proof conclusive that any woman can wear Nevasag and love it. Why not mail in Saturday's ad coupon for your material today?

Bucknell Coed Missing For Second Time

Washington, (AP)—The romance of a Bucknell University coed and her 16-year-old Bethesda, Md., boy friend blossomed anew Saturday night, and yesterday the couple were the object of a 13-state police lookout.

The last romantic escapade of Michael O'Connell, 16, and Jane Jacqueline Mengoni, 18, of Trenton, N. J., ended in Daytona Beach, Fla., when they were apprehended 10 days after their disappearance from the Bucknell campus Feb. 4.

This time they are believed headed for Trenton, or Connecticut, with the object matrimony.

The boy's father, J. E. O'Connell of suburban Bethesda, filed a missing person report on his son with Montgomery County Md. police Saturday night.

He reported that Miss Mengoni and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Mengoni, came to the O'Connell home Saturday for a visit. During the evening, Michael and the girl left the house ostensibly to get a hamburger at a nearby restaurant. Later they telephoned that they were en route to Elkton, Md., to be married.

O'Connell said the girl's parents left immediately, saying they were going to Elkton to help the young couple get married.

O'Connell said he is "very much opposed to any marriage."

At O'Connell's request, Montgomery County police broadcast a lookout for the O'Connell family car, the same vehicle used by the couple for their Florida trip following a weekend visit of Michael to the Bucknell campus at Lewisburg, Pa., earlier this month.

The lookout was relayed to police in 13 states of the northeastern part of the country.

A watch for the couple in Elkton and Ellicott City, Md., produced nothing. Police believe the pair may be heading for the girl's home in Trenton, or for Connecticut where marriage might be accomplished without undue delay.

Adenauer Turns Down Proposals

Bonn, Germany (AP)—German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared last night that his answer to France's proposals for changes in the one-uniform European army pact is a firm "no."

The chancellor spoke to reporters just before he boarded a special coach for Rome where he will meet with the foreign ministers of France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, the other five members who have signed but not ratified the treaty for a unified army.

"I regard the present political situation as serious in view of the Soviet menace," he said.

Adenauer told correspondents the changes France wants in the treaty would eliminate German equality in the projected two million-man force.

He declared that the French are trying to secure for themselves rights and privileges which they are unwilling to grant to the British. The French, he said, want the British to agree to affiliate their troops to the European army while the French ask freedom to shift their own troops freely between the European army and their colonies.

"The military integration of Western Europe is a question of life or death because of the acute danger from the Soviet Union," Adenauer added. "The European army also is needed to overcome the traditional tension and mistrust among the European countries."

Former Bethlehem Police Superintendent Is Dead; Was Episcopal Clergyman

Pottsville, (AP)—The Rev. Frederick T. Trafford, Episcopal minister and widely known in Eastern Pennsylvania, died today in Pottsville General Hospital following a lengthy illness. He was 66.

A native of Coalville, Pa., he moved to Williamsport and lived with an aunt there in his early youth after his parents died. He was graduated from Moravian College and its seminary in 1918 and was named pastor of the Third Moravian Church, in New York City.

After three years there he moved to Bethlehem where he served as pastor of the First Moravian Church until 1924 when he resigned to become a minister in the Episcopal Church.

For the next six years he served various Episcopal churches in Bethlehem while carrying out duties as executive secretary of the Bethlehem Young Men's Christian Association.

In January, 1930, he resigned to become superintendent of police and for the next seven years reorganized the department and modernized its operations.

In 1937 he was named rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Minersville and its auxiliary, St. Stephen's Chapel in Forresterville.

He resigned two years ago to become assistant rector of Trinity Episcopal Church in Pottsville.

Allies Will Block Krupp

Bonn, Germany, (AP)—The Western Allies will announce soon a plan to break up Germany's famed Krupp industrial empire.

The plan also is designed to block former munitions magnate Alfred Krupp from ever again returning to the steel and coal industries.

U. S. officials said yesterday the plan will force Krupp, 45-year-old present head of the Ruhr dynasty, to sell his vast coal and steel holdings worth an estimated 47 million dollars.

Krupp will give the Allies a written pledge that he will never buy back into these industries once the sale is completed.

In return Krupp will regain control of his other properties, worth an estimated 95 million dollars. These include shipyards, trading companies, an insurance company, a locomotive works and a chemical plant. This will make Krupp one of the richest and most powerful men in Europe.

American officials said this plan for breaking up Western Europe's largest industrial empire was worked out by experts of the Allied High Commission in consultation with Krupp and his attorneys.

It still must be approved by the American, French and British governments but this is expected soon, they said.

Motorists Make Many Mistakes

Applicants for new license tags are plaguing the Revenue Department with mistakes on checks and money orders.

Secretary Otto F. Messner reports more errors than ever before are showing up in remittances to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. Most, he said, appear due to haste and thoughtlessness. Mistakes mean delays in getting the plates to the owner because each error must be corrected, he added.

All renewal applications for new plates have been mailed out already, Messner said.

If an owner has not received the application by next Thursday he should contact the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Department of Revenue, Harrisburg, and should mention his title number.

France Opens Trial Today Against Four Accused Of Killing 150 Frenchmen

Bordeaux, France, (AP)—France's wartime legacy of horror from the German occupation is to be aired again in the trial of three Germans and a Frenchman accused of ordering the killings of at least 150 Frenchmen.

The trial opens today in the Bordeaux military court.

In the defendants' box for the new trial will be Michael Hambrecht, 63, former head of the Gestapo office at Limoges; Josef Kitz 47, chief adjutant; Jakob Rauen, 44, adjutant, and Charles Schmidt, 45, a shoemaker from Lyon who served the office as an interpreter. Five other Germans—Franz Kahabka, Kurt Bergman, Franz Haneberg, Franz Wulliger and Robert Wehres—will be judged in absentia.

The outline of the prosecution case charges them with: Organizing searches for Jews, starting in August, 1943. Many of the Jews were sent to German camps and most died there. Having 50 hostages shot after two Germans were killed in an ambush at Brantome on May 25, 1944. Killing 58 hostages at Mussidan in June, 1944, after a battle between the French underground and the German Army, in which 12 Germans were killed.

Organizing a series of arrests and executions in the following days including 39 at Perigueux during the period Aug. 12-17, 1944.

Lake Tides Rip Highways

Erie, Pa. (AP)—Tides, driven by 50 mile-an-hour winds, lashed the Presque Isle peninsula last night, leaving gaping holes in a concrete highway and damaging the beach.

The waves battered the seven-mile highway, washing away one 50 foot section and damaging another 200 foot section. The peninsula runs parallel to Lake Erie, separating it from the harbor area.

U. S. Presidents Wilson, Taft and Theodore Roosevelt were born in 1856, 1857 and 1858 respectively, but served as President in the reverse order.

Two—That Britain start at once to withdraw her more than 70,000-strong garrison.

Best available information from the highest diplomatic authorities in this capital is that Britain's answer will be "No" unless Egypt agrees first to join an Allied-sponsored Middle East Defense Organization.

Britain has sought American support for this attitude. Her top diplomats and soldiers have laid down that the United States and Egyptian co-operation with MEDO is to be won.

But the United States up to now has made no firm promises. American policy-makers do not seem to be convinced that a Cairo commitment to join MEDO must come before a British withdrawal.

Egypt Seeks Suez Release

London (AP)—Britain yesterday faced urgent new Egyptian demands to give up her traditional role as guardian of the Suez Canal.

Britain and Egypt will sit down at the conference table soon to talk things over. The conferences may well bring the two countries to their most serious diplomatic crisis.

For the stakes will be tremendously high: control of the great short cut linking Europe, Asia and Africa, a prize to be coveted by an invader from the East. And whoever guards the Suez Canal pretty well rules the vital Middle East.

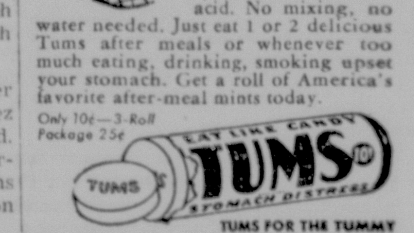

Dreaming of the glories of past Moslem power, the government of Egyptian Premier Mohamed Naguib is boldly challenging British supremacy in the mideast with these demands:

One—That British give up her vast air and land bases in the Suez Canal zone within a stated period. Value of the great workshops, storage depots and base installations is believed to be around 1½ billion dollars.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Tobyhanna Township proved to one and all on Friday night that winning the Monroe County League championship for the fourth straight year with an undefeated record was no mistake. The TTHS age machine rolled over the All-Stars by a comfortable margin of 14 points, 64-50. Regardless of which club received your backing during the annual clash on the East Stroudsburg High court, one and all must admit that the quintet assembled by Coach Carl Majer is a mighty old organization.

I believe Jim "Cocky" Wilson to be one of the best performers in the Monroe County League in recent years and a boy that will be heard from after graduation in June. Yet, Wilson could never have led TTHS to its fourth straight title by himself. The cool shooting and floor play of Murlin Mays, the rebounding ability of Bob Blakeslee, the shooting of Bob Miller and the general play of Fred Fischer are all important factors in TTHS's latest championship.

The All-Stars remained in the thick of the battle most of the way. In fact, the choices of the league held a six-point edge in the third quarter. Mays fouled out of the game at the same time and those lacking the All-Stars had hopes for a major upset. Yet, there was a feeling of calmness in the TTHS ranks and it was apparent that the championship calibre of the maroon and gold clad quintet would make its presence felt before the contest turned into history. There was no comparison in the two rivals during the last eight minutes of play.

Although Coach Otto "Junior" Mills and his All-Stars did a fine job for three periods against the power packed TTHS five, it was evident among several veteran observers that the best talent in the circuit wasn't present in the All-Star lineup. From all appearances, the selection of the All-Star team in the Monroe County League at the present time is on the basis of popularity and not ability. There were at least three real good cagers at the game as spectators instead of players.

A committee to select the top talent in the circuit was suggested and there is a possibility that such a setup may become a reality some day. It was also suggested that the All-Stars practice as a team at least one or two times before the big game. In this manner the individual performers could work out a pattern and form a team, rather than field an organization of five pairs of players. Two members of each entry are selected each year to battle the number one club in the standings.

This scribe was particularly impressed by Roger Roan and Paul Gravel of Barrett and the Coolbaugh two-some of Alex Konoiska and Don Kinsley during the course of Friday's tussle. This quartet was in the game as a unit for most of the third quarter and it was during this time that the All-Stars shot into the six-point lead. The Barrett representatives controlled both boards and the Coolbaugh cagers hit regularly from the corners with one handers. This group had the TTHS backers breathing hard for a few moments.

All-Star coaching plans were changed at the last minute, due to the policy of rotation which put Mills into the "hot" seat instead of Don Wismer. Wismer, the Coolbaugh mentor, coached the junior varsity All-Stars last season and the varsity All-Stars the year before and was officially scheduled for the task again this year. Joe Murray, Barrett coach, is to be warmly congratulated for the manner in which he halted the unheard of booring in the second period, when Blakeslee was attempting to shoot a foul shot.

Joe walked to the center of the court and made an announcement that halted the organized and very foul booring practice. There isn't any substitute for good sportsmanship, regardless of which team is winning or losing. The league took no chances of having its back doors raided as they were last season. There was a sharp lookout at each door and very few, if any, complimentary admissions, without proper authority, were granted. There should be plenty of money for a banquet this year, as the N. Courtland St. gym played host to a large crowd.

Waymart Assured Of Deadlock For Wayne County Cage Title

Newfoundland—Waymart continued its relentless march toward its fourth consecutive Wayne County Basketball Conference championship Friday night by walloping Damascus, 89-62, thereby assuring itself of at least a tie for the crown.

Warriorettes Take Measure Of Cheyney

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College raised the victory flag for the fifth straight time for its girls' basketball team on Saturday, when the Warriorettes rolled over Cheyney, 58-20, in the Normal Hill gymnasium.

The ESSTC lassies have yet to lose a game this season.

Yesterday's win was the second over Cheyney this season. The charges of Coach Genevieve Zimbar have also taken the measure of College Misericordia twice and Hunter College on one occasion this year.

The Warriorettes rode to victory over Cheyney on the fine shooting of Doris "Toughy" Zerbey, Edna Mae Michener and Carol Mosser, as ESSTC had visiting Cheyney at its mercy throughout the contest. Saturday's visit marked the first time a girls' athletic team from Cheyney had ever appeared on the Normal Hill court.

No Contest

ESSTC broke away to a 20-8 lead at the end of the first period and the outcome of the game was never in doubt after that point. The Warriorettes led 29-10 at the halfway mark.

Coach Zimbar cleared the home team's bench in the second half, but ESSTC continued to dominate play, 15-4 in the third quarter and 14-6 in the final round.

ESSTC made good on 10 of 13 tries from the free-throw line, while Cheyney could sink only four of 11 charity tosses.

Five Warriorettes, paced by Michener, broke into the scoring column.

Big Ten Slaps Michigan State

Chicago (CP)—The Big Ten yesterday put Michigan State College on athletic probation for a year in a move bitterly protested by officials of the conference newcomer, which last year turned out the nation's top football team.

Commissioner Kenneth L. "Tug" Wilson ruled that a special fund to aid MSC athletes violated conference regulations and his stand was backed in a special meeting yesterday of Big Ten faculty representatives.

Pins Spots ---

By Cal Counterman

The best match of the week was turned in by Herb Yutz, in the Boiler Works League at the Legion Alleys on Thursday night as he came up with three 200 games to total 648. One of the oddities of the games was the fact that each one dropped exactly eight pins lower than the preceding one. He started out with a 224, came back with a 216 and finished with a 208.

One of the best individual games turned up by the ladies of the county came to light a week ago in the Twin-Boro Ladies' League. Lorraine Pipher pieced together a string of strikes to end up with a 230 score and one of the highest in the ladies' competition.

The East Stroudsburg Ladies' League tuned up last Tuesday with the girls bettering the 500 mark. Nell Harmon and Eleanor Michaels both of Palace Diner had 519 and 528 respectively, but in the final reckoning they were both beat out by Marie Bonser who had 562 on a 202-197-163.

Robert Reidmiller missed 600 on Tuesday night by six pins as he had a bad middle game in the Bushkill League. Bob opened with a 211, then hit a 159 and came back with a 224 to add up to the 594 to be high for the night.

Clyde Bush helped Herb's Men's Shop in the YMCA Senior League take four points from Monroe Co-op as he was high with 580 on 223-177 and 180. The only other man in the league to give him any competition was Dick Macdonough who hit 195-194-170 for a 559.

Wally Straub finally wound up on top in the Record Major after being one of the most consistent second best men in the competition. Wally usually has a good match and then someone comes along and beats him out by a couple of pins. This week he turned the trick as anchor man for Community Bar with a 591 on games of 189-202-200.

No game is too high to tie as was found out in the "A" league this past week as Red Top Tavern and Deerhead Inn after splitting the first two games between them equally both came up with their best games of the night only to have to split the point as they rolled a 949 each. This gave Red Top a two and a half decision over league leading Deerhead, who won one and a half. Top man for the night was

Will Cooke with a 631 and was trailed closely by Dick Andrews with a 630. Jack Darr had the biggest game with a 257 in the first game.

Stroudsburg Auto Body had one of the most consistent matches rolled in the "B" league as the high man on the team had 561 and low man was 543 with the other three in between. This gave them a 2761 for high and four points for the night.

Fabel's Gulf won three points from Baylor's Esso in the Dave Schmidt League in a close match as they won the first game by six pins and then lost the second one by thirty four to bounce back and win the last one by 40 pins and total wood by 12. Henry Baustein was high for the team and league with a 576 with his biggest game a 203 in the one they lost.

Penn Dell Dairy came up with an 831-2129 to win four points from Fernwood in the Stroud Ladies' League. The 831 is one of the highest if not the highest game rolled in the league this year. Dorothy Kiday anchor for the team had the highest single game for the league on a 186.

Chet Odrodski was a big help in St. Matthew's getting a 3-1 split over Methodist in the East Stroudsburg Church League as he came up with 162-212-235 for a 609. This helped St. Matthew's to high single and triple on an 802 and a 2534.

In the "C" league Kream-ee rolled over Cole's Drug Store as Frank Reidmiller opened with a 168—came back with a 242 and finished with another 168 for a 578. With all of this help Kream-ee was second best as Regina hit an 889 for high and the best Kream-ee could do was 880. Then came total wood and again Regina had a 2520 while Kream-ee a 2512.

The Monroe League came up with two 600's in the form of a 618 by Sam Strunk on 168-248-202 and then Bill Messler hit 602 on 168-199-235. Both of these men were a big help in Beseker's Diner winning four points from the Gem Lunch as they hit an 887-957-800 for a 2644.

Transue Auto Body was high in the Pocono League with an 893 and a 2506 they still won only two points from Kelper's Laundry. Detrick was high with a 208 beating out Walt Transue who had a 206.

Wilson Tops TTHS Regulars In Scoring

One of the reasons Tobyhanna Township High was able to win its fourth straight Monroe County League basketball championship is revealed in scoring figures of the first five players.

Figures were kept and released by John Waltz, manager of the TTHS cage machine.

Tabulation
Jim Wilson led the scoring parade with 278 points in 17 games, while Bob Miller was next in line with 257 markers in 17 outings. Fred Blakeslee was third in the point parade with 238 tallies in 18 contests.

Murlin Mays tallied 177 points in 18 games and Bob Fischer came up with 118 markers in 17 trips to the hardwood.

Scoring figures include the All-Star classic played at East Stroudsburg High last Friday and won by TTHS, 64-50.

Stalin Again Runs In One- Ballot Race

Moscow (AP)—Prime Minister Joseph Stalin and most leaders of the government and Communist party were candidates in local elections yesterday. No one opposed them.

Voters in seven of Russia's 16 Republics began casting ballots in the early morning hours to choose deputies for local "soviets" or councils.

For each deputy's seat there is one official candidate. Voters may cast ballots for or against this candidate who represents the "Stalinist bloc Communists and non-party people."

In Moscow, the voters choose deputies for the Moscow City Soviet and the Moscow Regional Soviet. Stalin was named a candidate for both offices. Many other cities and regions made him their candidate also.

Valley Forge Hospital Anniversary Celebrated

Phoenixville, (AP)—The 10th anniversary of Valley Forge Army Hospital was celebrated yesterday by patients and staff members. The hospital was dedicated on Washington's birthday in 1943.

During the second world war the hospital gained fame for its work in plastic surgery on the wounded of that war.

A federal economy move in 1950, forced the closing of the hospital but it was reopened shortly after the Korean war began.

Since that time it has been a center for neuropsychiatry, neurosurgery, hand surgery and the treatment of tuberculosis.

Special parties for the staff and patients were combined with the observance of Washington's birthday while, at the same time, the second annual week-long Protestant preaching mission was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Cary N. Weisiger 3d, of Pittsburgh.

Red Police Kill Man Fleeing Them

Berlin, (AP)—Communist police killed a man and wounded a woman fleeing across the border into the American sector, West Berlin police announced yesterday. At the same time the Red Gestapo was reported making hundreds of arrests in the Soviet zone.

The shooting was the third such incident in two days.

West Berlin police said an East Berlin couple, trying to escape to the West with two truckloads of their possessions, ignored warnings to halt and dashed across the Schilling Bridge into the American sector late Saturday night.

The Russian sector police fired several shots, killing a friend of the couple who had undertaken to drive one of the trucks, and wounding the woman.

The truck with the slain driver crashed into a newstand and rolled on into the American sector. The couple also reached the American sector and the woman was taken to a hospital. The names of the couple and their friend were not disclosed.

East sector police fired on three refugees which crashed through the border barriers at two points Friday but did not hurt anyone. The four persons in the cars asked for political asylum.

Another 1,300 refugees poured into West Berlin yesterday—many of them just one jump ahead of Wilhelm Zaisser's secret police, and Red Gestapo whose members sometimes wear the black uniforms of the old Hitler SS.

Mrs. William Clugston

Many of the older residents of this vicinity and Henryville will remember the People's College which in the early 20s was located where the William Hunter Estate now beautifies the neighborhood. They will also remember Frank and Lelia Smith, well-liked members of the faculty of said college, who, for the past several years, have been at Berea College, Berea, Ky. A recent letter from them mentions their daughter Ruth, her husband and baby boy, also that they have snowdrops and daffodils blooming in Berea—another indication Spring is on the way.

At a recent meeting of Cherry Lane Church members, Rev. Ralph H. Feltham read a letter he had received from the pastor's wife of a church in Augusta, Ga., where Pvt. Sherwood Kane, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kane, had attended service. She remarked they hoped Sherwood would worship with them often as they were so favorably impressed with him. Sherwood's address is U. S. 52213342, STU Co. 19, TSESS, Camp Gordon, Ga.

Russians Touch Off Guessing Game For U. N. By Sending Their Top Diplomats To Session

By Max Harrelson
Of The AP's U. N. Staff
The Russians have again touched off a guessing game at the United Nations by sending their first-string diplomats, headed by Andrei V. Vishinsky, to the U. N. General Assembly.

While most other governments will rely on their permanent delegates at the session opening today, Vishinsky arrived yesterday with a staff of 20. The Soviet satellites, Poland and Czechoslovakia, also are sending their foreign ministers.

The question being asked is: What are the Russians up to now?

As usual, the Soviet leaders are keeping quiet about whatever plans they have. They may or may not have surprise proposals. In sending their first team to the session, the Russians are following a practice that they began when the U. N. started in 1946. So this, in itself, is not necessarily significant.

But it does show that the Russians expect the make the U. N. the main scene of their diplomatic activity during the coming weeks. Diplomats have learned from experience that the U. N. is the place to watch for Soviet policy changes when Vishinsky is attending sessions.

There will be ample opportunity for Soviet policy declarations on such red hot issues as the Korean conflict and disarmament, because these subjects already are on the Assembly's agenda. On the other hand, Vishinsky will face a barrage of criticism on Russia's attitude toward Jews and may come forward with some sort of declaration aimed at justifying the Soviet acts.

There is some speculation that Vishinsky may bring up some sort of charges against the United States as a result of President Eisenhower's new orders to the U. S. Seventh Fleet. The Communists have left no doubt that they are angry over the order which directed the fleet to end its neutralization watch in the Straits of Formosa. The Americans and friendly delegations are expecting that Vishinsky will charge the U. S. is committing aggression against Red China by assisting Chiang Kai-shek.

The Assembly agenda already includes two major issues sponsored by the Communist countries. One is Poland's plan for an immediate cease-fire in Korea, a one-third reduction in the armaments of the big powers and a Big Five peace pact. This was sponsored by Russia at the 1951 session of the Assembly and rejected.

Another Soviet bloc item is Czechoslovakia's complaint that the internal affairs of the Iron Curtain countries by allegedly organizing and financing subversives. This also was debated and rejected at the Paris Assembly. There has been no evidence that Russia is coming up with anything new on Korea.

Chinese Reds Resume Tale Of Germ Warfare By U. S.

Tokyo, Monday, (AP)—The Chinese Communist radio Sunday resumed its major germ war propaganda offensive against the U. S. with claims two captured Marine officers "confessed" taking part in the campaign.

Both the U. S. State Department and the United Nations Command previously have branded the Red germ charges as false.

The new Communist blasts appeared to be timed to coincide with the opening of the U. N. General Assembly sessions in New York.

The Reds completely ignored Gen. Mark Clark's renewed offer to exchange sick and wounded prisoners of war, transmitted Sunday by liaison officers to the Panmunjom truce conference site.

Clark repeated earlier U. N. offers to exchange ailing prisoners pending final settlement of the stalemate prisoner of war issue—chief stumbling block to an armistice. The Reds insist on the exchange of all prisoners including those who do not want to return voluntarily to Communist control.

The new Red propaganda drive kicked off with a 6,000 word statement attributed to Col. Frank H. Schwable, a prisoner of the Reds, who was identified as former chief of staff of the First Marine air wing in Korea.

Also mentioned but not quoted was Maj. Roy H. Bley, described as former ordnance officer of the Marine air wing. Both were said to have been shot down on July 8, 1952 by Communist anti-aircraft guns.

It could not be learned immediately if the Marine wing carried the two officers on its rolls as missing in action.

BISHOP WILLIAM C. MARTIN (center), president of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States, holds the "One Great Hour of Sharing" poster to be nationally displayed in connection with the 1953 United Appeal. More than $7,000,000 is to be raised for overseas relief and reconstruction work. Millions of Protestant churchgoers will observe the "Hour of Sharing" on Sunday, March 8. At right is Dr. Samuel McRae Cavert, general secretary of the National Council of Churches.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the answer of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right, then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Churches To Join Noon Hour Service

In co-operation with the Kiwanis Club for a better observance of the Lenten season, the churches of Stroudsburg have set up a plan through which special noon-hour services will be conducted in the center of the business district each Tuesday during Lent.

The first effort last year proved very successful and many persons used a portion of the noon lunch hour in church for meditation and prayer.

As last year these services will be conducted in the Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

The committee of pastors that have arranged this series of services, will carry out the same plan as last year. Each Tuesday two services will be conducted. In order to give opportunity to those who cannot leave home, the noon-hour service will be held from 12:30 until 1:15 p. m. For those whose lunch hour is from one to two, the service will be duplicated from 1:30 until 1:55 p. m.

Local pastors will have charge and present a Lenten meditation using suitable hymns and prayers for the occasion. The first of this series will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 24, at 12:30 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all employees and executives to attend these services each Tuesday.

Rev. Roger Stimson, pastor of the Stroudsburg Methodist church, will bring the message this Tuesday. Next week, Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlson, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, will be in charge.

Many Attend Communion

The Holy Communion administered at the 10:45 service Sunday in Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, was observed by a capacity congregation who crowded the sanctuary.

Rev. Herbert F. Garnert, Jr., former U. S. Army Chaplain read the liturgical service and also assisted in the administration of the sacrament.

Rev. William F. Wunder, Grace Church minister, delivered the first in his series of Lenten sermons on the theme, "God So Loved The World."

The second mid-week Lenten vesper service will be conducted on Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. when the Passion Narrative of Christ will be used along with the Litany prayers and Evening Suffrages.

Rev. Frank W. Wingerter, pastor to the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church will be guest minister.

Pastor Wunder reported that parking restrictions on the west side of Lackawanna Avenue would be eliminated during the mid-week services for the parking convenience of folks attending Lenten mid-week services. Miss Elizabeth Knierim will sing a soprano solo, "Father, Most Merciful."

Methodist Youth Meet

The Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church met at the parsonage, 602 Thomas st., at 8:45 p. m. Sunday.

Rev. Ernest Campbell presented the tenets of the Presbyterian Church, followed by a question period.

This service was one in a series of programs on the understanding of other denominations by the youth of the church. Mr. Campbell was accompanied by members of his Youth Fellowship. Refreshments were served by Bob and T. L. Metzgar.

MRS. ALLEN M. MYERS takes over the teaching of her daughter, Shelley, 9, after her husband, Allen Myers, an attorney, was acquitted in the Domestic Relations Court, New York, for refusing to send his daughter to a 94-year-old school. He called the building unsafe and dangerous. The child is being tutored at home by her mother.

JACK COULTON, 41, a London, England, insurance clerk, happily holds up the checks he received when he hit the jackpot in two separate football pools. They totaled 109,000 pounds, or $303,000 in American money—tax free. Coulton started filling in the pool forms three years ago, figured out a combination and stuck with it.

Many Patients Respond To Ministerium Service

The initial service held Sunday afternoon in the East Solarium of the Monroe County General Hospital from 1:30 to 2 o'clock under the auspices of the Monroe County Ministerium was greeted by a large number of patients who came on crutches, wheelchairs, with nurses' assistance and under their own mobility.

Every available seat was filled and folding chairs were placed along either side of the 2nd floor corridor to accommodate the overflow attendance.

Frank LaBar, president of the hospital, and Harry Smith, superintendent, estimated close to fifty patients attending and lauded the ministerium for this gesture. The attendance far exceeded the expectation of the hospital committee of the ministerium. If attendance continues it will necessitate changing the place of worship from the Solarium to the Clinic rooms on the first floor.

Rev. Robert M. Bradburn, pastor of the Shawnee Presbyterian Church, delivered the sermon and led the worship and hymn sing at yesterday's service. Mrs. Bradburn presided at the console of the portable organ.

Rev. William F. Wunder, the ministerium's hospital committee chairman, offered the concluding prayer and benediction.

Next Sunday's guest minister who will lead the worship service will be the Rev. Frank W. Wingerter, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of East Stroudsburg.

Laymen In Charge Of Services

The leadership of the morning worship at the Stroudsburg Methodist Church, February 22, was in the hands of the laymen.

William Clark, president of the Men's Brotherhood was in charge. Melvin Fetterhoff, vice president of the Brotherhood read the responsive reading and John Robertson, the scripture reading.

The message of the service, "A Laymen's Responsibility to His Church" was developed by two active laymen of the church, Earl Groner, teacher of the Faithful Bible Class, and John Wilson, charge lay leader of the congregation.

A Men's Chorus under the direction of Albert J. Fregans sang two numbers, "Rock of Ages" and "My Lord and I". The Sanctuary Choir made up of children in the Junior Department sang "At Work Beside His Father's Bench".

For this special number, Robert Hawk, the leader of the Sanctuary Choir played a violin obligato.

It is believed that Australia was once completely covered with ice.
